The physical and buy dental cream online in Australia consequences of stress and depression are rather well-documented, but recent studies show that the problem might also have effects on a persons intelligence.

Research shows that stress and depression are capable of killing brain cells if left untreated, but can also prevent new cells from being generated to replace the old ones. Stress and depression are two buy dental cream online in Australia the things in modern life that you have to deal with at one point or another. The former is an everyday thing, one that can stem from something as difficult as social anxiety to something as mundane as tripping over your own shoelaces.

The latter, depression, is not quite as easy to develop in the clinical sense, but most people will end up experiencing a point in their lives that comes dangerously close to being depressed. For the most part, these two problems are considered to be threats to ones physical and mental health.
