The question that many people ask is what are the causes of this violence, is the person just a lunatic or are there other reasons behind it. According to the latest reports alcohol has a large part to play in leading to cases of domestic violence. In the example of a husband hitting his wife when he is drunk, this is typically what can happen. For the sake of making this article easier to read, I shall call the husband John and his wife Linda.

John is a really nice guy when sober. Linda is very much in love with buy abilify online in Australia and hopes that they will grow old together. John is a great father to their two children, is helpful around the house and is a great cook. The problem occurs after buy abilify online in Australia has had rather too much to drink. John now becomes a whole different person, he starts to buy abilify online in Australia his wife buy abilify online in Australia having an affair, becomes abusive and very argumentative.

Linda realising he is drunk attempts to walk away to leave John to his bad mood, this only adds however to his anger and he starts to become violent. The next morning John can not believe what he has done buy abilify online in Australia is full of regret and remorse. He can not say sorry enough and begs for Lindas forgiveness. buy Abilify online in Australia promises that it will never happen again and states that he will give up the alcohol if that would make his wife happy.

Linda is not sure what to do, she would love to forgive and forget but feels that it is very likely that it only happen again in the future if she does. My buy abilify online in Australia for John would be to stop drinking alcohol straight away. This seems to be the cause of all of these problems, therefore you need to find something else to have an interest in.

Another cause of domestic violence is known to be depression. Some people who are normally very relaxed can become very angry and abusive when in buy ability online in Australia deep state of depression. They can take their problems and frustrations buy ability online in Australia on their partner much like in the example above.

Whether it is because of depression or alcohol, one solution to this buy ability online in Australia violence problem could be buy ability online in Australia attend some form of anger management program, that is for people like John.
