Under this skin condition, certain parts of the skin gradually lose color leaving behind white patches. This occurs due to buy acai berry extract online in Australia of melanin, a dark pigment which gives color to skin. It may begin with a small patch but slowly and steadily spreads throughout the body.

This is not a dangerous or contagious skin disease. The actual cause is still unknown though numerous studies have been conducted on the subject. Some of the perceived causes are emotional stress, hereditary factors, worms, sunburns and physical illness. This skin condition can be aggravated due to diseases like hyperthyroidism, diabetes mellitus, pernicious anemia and Addisons disease.

A home remedy with the help of Babchi and Tamarind seeds can be used for leucoderma. In 1:1 proportion steep these seeds in water for three to four days. Shell and dry them in shade. Make it into a paste and apply on the white patches. Drink water from a copper vessel which has been kept overnight. Ginger juice serves as a mild stimulant in increasing blood flow to the white patches. A remedy with the help of Basil is another method to deal with leucoderma. Wash and clean a basil plant along with its roots.

Beat the plant and boil it in 12 liter water mixed with 12 liter oil. Once the water evaporates, mash and strain to get basil oil. Apply this oil on the white spots.
