Basically, I fully expect this article to cause a sh storm that will reverberate throughout the supplement industry. The only people who I know are going to be happy about this article is the consumer, but I am getting ahead of myself. As we all know, creatine buy plavix online in Australia one of buy plavix online in Australia best bodybuilding supplements ever discovered. It increases strength, buy plavix online in Australia body mass, and, to a lesser extent, endurance.

If that were not enough, its relatively cheap to boot. When creatine was first introduced it was sort of pricey, but no one really cared because it worked so well. As time went on and buy plavix online in Australia companies began selling creatine, the inevitable price war began and prices came down. At that point creatine was only being buy plavix online in Australia by a few companies, so creatine was basically creatine and the price was the only real consideration.

As is typical of the market place, once creatine became big business, several new manufacturers popped up and it became no longer a price war as much as a quality war. The expression "creatine is creatine" no longer holds true. More on that shortly. At this time there are probably four-five companies large enough to mass produce creatine for the sports nutrition market. These companies in turn sell their product in huge bulk amounts to various distributors around the world.

As far as the mass producers are concerned, there is a large German company, two companies out of China, buy plavix online in Australia two in the United States. Though there are various other companies, for this article we will basically concern ourselves with these five major producers which their testing results or methods. The test results came to me through the back door so to speak. So what was tested for and what did it reveal.

The creatine products were tested for Dicyandiamide, Creatinine, Dihydrofiazine, and sodium content. What buy plavix online in Australia the tests reveal. It revealed that there is a wide range of differences between creatine products from different manufacturers. The purity level of all the creatine products were also tested and they generally fell between 88 and 92. Now before buy plavix online in Australia go off yelling buy Plavix online in Australia my creatine says 99 pure creatine monohydrate on the bottle," you have to remember there is a small buy plavix online in Australia of water in creatine monohydrate.
